The information provided on this website is intended for general information and educational purposes.

It is not intended to provide a diagnosis or individual clinical advice. Information on a website cannot replace a clinical examination, appropriate investigations or a discussion of your individual circumstances with a suitably qualified dental professional.

Treatment described on this website may not be appropriate for every patient. The suitability of any treatment can only be determined following an appropriate assessment, taking into account your dental and medical history, clinical findings, your individual circumstances and your wishes.

Examples of treatment and clinical cases shown on this website are provided to illustrate the types of treatment and clinical decision-making that may be undertaken. Individual results vary and no particular treatment outcome can be guaranteed.

Where treatment is described as being available, this does not mean that it is necessarily suitable for you or that it will be recommended following assessment.

Treatment information and fees

Treatment options, treatment sequences and fees described on this website are provided as a guide.

The final treatment recommended for an individual patient will depend on the findings of their assessment and the treatment plan agreed with them.

Where treatment is complex or requires several stages, the likely costs and treatment sequence will be discussed with the patient before treatment proceeds.

Current fee information is available on the Fees Guide page.
